Siegel Becomes the Sixth Candidate for City Council

Attorney Valerie Siegel, who has lived in Greenbelt since 1978, filed on the last day to challenge the five sitting council members, all of whom are running for re-election. This is Siegel's second try for a seat on the council, as she was also a candidate in 1985.

Biographies of Siegel and Mayor Pro Tem Edward Putens are printed below. They will be running against Mayor Antoinette "Toni" Bram and Councilmembers Thomas X. White, Rodney Roberts, and Judith Davis, whose biographies were printed in previous issues of the News Review.

Edward Putens

Edward Putens is completing his seventh term on the Greenbelt City Council. Putens has been a resident of Greenbelt for 27 years, living in Charlestowne North Apartments for 10 years, Windsor Green townhouses for nine years, and in a Greenbrook single family home for eight. His family includes his wife Becky and three children—Kim, 26; Ryan, 16; and Amy, 14. He was born in Hazelton, Pennsylvania and later moved to Baltimore.

Putens has been employed by the federal government for 22 years and has received many awards and commendations. Since 1987 he has been with the Food and Drug Administration and currently serves as a manager in the FDA's Office of Human Resources. He previously served in a variety of management and staff positions for the Department of Labor, the Office of Personnel Management, and the U.S. Postal Service.

Prior to his council service, Putens was chairman of the Community Relations Advisory Board (CRAB), which developed the proposal to establish the city's Crime Prevention Committee. He was one of the original members of the Windsor Green Board of Directors, wrote its committee bylaws and architectural control guidelines. He served on the Board for eight years.

Putens has also been active in a variety of community organizations. He is a member of Citizens for Greenbelt and a charter member of the Greenbelt Consumer Co-op, the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum, the Greenbelt Arts Center, and the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club. He was an active participant in the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club programs when his children were younger. Putens previously earned a black belt in karate, and from 1968 to '1977 he operated a karate school above the Co-op grocery store.

While on the City Council, Putens served on numerous county, state, and national committees. He is a member of the regional Council of Governments (COG), Prince Georges County Municipal Association, Maryland Municipal League, and National League of Cities. He currently serves on the COG Human Resources and Public Safety Policy Committee (chairman 1986-1987), and he previously served on the Transportation Planning Board and the Human Resources Policy Committee. He has also served on two committees of the National League of Cities—the Hu-

Whose Vision in Metro Plans?

by Heather Elizabeth Peterson

The question of how to plan for Greenbelt West's future caused the Greenbelt City Council to clash with the city staff at the August 28 work session.

The subject under discussion was the city's Metro goals, which tell how Greenbelt wishes planning and zoning to take place in Greenbelt West. This long-term project will eventually be submitted to the County Council, which will use it to determine what development occurs in that part of Eunice Coxon, Greenbelt activist, receives County Civic Federation award.

Local Activist Eunice Coxon Wins Civic Federation Award

by Autumn Kuei

Eunice Coxon—utter the name and the word "fireball" comes to mind. The consensus from fellow Greenbelters is that she never fails to speak her mind. But fan or critic, no one can deny that this octogenarian inspires extreme emotions in all who know her. A transplanted New Englander, Coxon has been active in the Greenbelt community for the past 29 years.

Coxon's "reach out and touch someone" philosophy has extended beyond our fair city to the rest of the county, and on Thursday, Sept. 14, she was awarded the Prince Georges County Civic Federation Award for her tireless involvement with civic activities in Greenbelt and throughout the county.

Councilwoman Audrey Scott, a longtime friend of Coxon's, was present at the Golden Bull to present her with the award, as well as a citation from the County Council. Councilwoman

Scott said, "I have been the recipient of thousands of calls from Eunice" and have "learned to rely on (her) information." In addition, Scott commented that "no one is more dedicated to good government" and ensuring that "elected officials are held accountable." Mayor Antoinette Bram, although unable to attend the award dinner, sent her congratulations to Coxon.

Greenbelters may know Coxon best for her service for two terms as president of Citizens for Greenbelt, her work on five committees for Greenbelt Homes, Inc., and her efforts to secure voting machines for GHI annual meetings. She also served as a Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Talent Show Judge, on the City of Greenbelt Board of Appeals, and has been the recipient of numerous nominations for Outstanding Citizen of Greenbelt.

Dr. Harriet Phelps, a friend of Coxon's, says, "I always have fun

"My problem with hiring the so-called experts to form a vision is that they're going to put their vision out."

—Rodney Roberts, City Council

the city.

City staff suggested hiring experts to develop what City Manager Daniel G. Hobbs described as a "vision" for Greenbelt West. Hobbs said that the Metro goals were of great importance because "the decisions coming out of this are going to affect an entire end of Greenbelt for the next 50 years."

Several councilmembers suggested that this project should only be started after council has made clear what types of development are considered appropriate for Greenbelt. Said Councilmember Edward Putens, "I want to make sure that we don't get sucked into (the experts') plans."

Councilmember Rodney Roberts agreed, saying, "There is such an excess of office space in this area . . . this is ridiculous."

Hobbs responded to the criticism by saying, "Aren't you . . . already articulating an assumed vision?" He said that in the process he was suggesting, Greenbelt would decide what its vision is for the area.

Roberts replied, "My problem with hiring the so-called experts charrette, adding, "We did a similar thing with Schrom Hills Park . . . [The experts] facilitate you to getting to an understanding of your future."

Said Councilmember Thomas X. White, "I guess my problem would be that we would be undergoing a paper-is-blank type of planning, and I would like to put a parameter around it. . . . It would be nice if we had some goals."

"I think the process takes care of that," said Wilson. The goals, she said, come at a later stage in the process.

White reiterated, however, "I want to start down the path with some very strong Greenbelt parameters."

Hobbs argued that if Greenbelt skipped steps in developing its Metro goals vision, this would reflect badly on the city when the County Council decided whether to use these goals. He said that there was "something intellectually dishonest" about council stating what the city's vision was for Greenbelt West before the city had begun studying the matter.

There's Still Time to Register For the City Council Election

Yes, Virginia, there could be a spirited City Council election, after all. Until Sept. 25 - the last day for candidates to file - it appeared the five sitting city council members would have an easy ride. With no challengers in the race, Mayor Antoinette Bram, Mayor Pro-tem Edward Putens, and Councilmembers Thomas X. White, Rodney Roberts, and Judith Davis could be expected to concentrate their efforts on vying for the mayoral seat, which traditionally goes to the top vote getter.

However, early Monday afternoon Valerie Siegel threw her hat into the ring, a sign that the 1995 City Council election will be more than a single-issue campaign, one that will generate interest and energize the electorate to come out and vote on November 7.

Yes, Virginia, Greenbelters surely know they must be registered with Prince Georges County in order to cast their ballots on election day. Anyone who is uncertain about his or her voting status can call City Clerk David Moran or Dorothy Lauber at 474-3870.

How to Register

Residents who wish to register may pick up forms during regular office hours at the city offices in the Municipal Building, 25 Crescent Road, or at the Greenbelt Library, Greenbelt Homes, Inc., Green Ridge House, Greenbriar Community Center, Windsor Green Community Center, Hunting Ridge Condominium Association, and Springhill Lake Fountain Lodge.

Voter registration forms may also be obtained by calling 627-2814. All forms must be mailed or delivered to the County Board of Elections, 14701 Oden Bowie Drive in Upper Marlboro, by 4 p.m. on October 10. (The city is not involved with this procedure.)

In addition to being registered

Greenbriar Thanks Coach Marvin Gay

Greenbriar Tennis Coach Marvin L. Gay was thanked by the youth and adults of Greenbriar for his summer tennis instruction sessions. Hand-made cards and letters of thanks were presented to Gay in the Greenbriar Game Room and are currently on display there.

"Twenty free tennis lessons were provided for Greenbriar and Glen Oaks adults and children over age 6," said Michael F. Vaccaro, President of the Greenbriar Community Association. "We were also very pleased to receive donations of tennis rackets from the community."

Students learned basic tennis fundamentals: choosing equipment, controlling the racket (and the ball), forehands, backhands, lobs and serves, and scoring a game.

"It was a pleasure to work with enthusiastic community youth and adults," said Gay. "To see them grow over the 10 weeks was very rewarding. I would also like to extend my appreciation to the assistant coaches David Dixon and Ron Anderson."

Fifty Years Ago Traffic Fines

by James Giese

May, 1945—"Where does the $3.50 go?" asked the Greenbelt Cooperator in an editorial about traffic fines. The $3.50 was the amount of the total $5.50 minimum fine charged for local traffic violations that went to the state for "court" costs. The paper wasn't able to determine what the money was used for. Between the money for fines and the expensive Maryland auto tags, the paper felt that Maryland should have the best highway system in the country.

The paper also advocated that, instead of giving the police officers discretionary powers to issue either warnings or citations, there should be a policy for traffic violators. It suggested that first offenders should be given a reprimand by the officer, second violators a warning and that the fine only be imposed the third time.

Jim Trelease, author of the best-selling Read-Aloud Handbook, will speak and sign copies of the new fourth edition of the Handbook on Monday, October 2, 7 p.m., at Eleanor Roosevelt High School, 7601 Hanover Parkway.

Since its initial publication in 1979, The Read-Aloud Handbook has shown parents and teachers, across the nation and around the world, how to raise a reader. There are over one million copies in print and Jim Trelease has become known as "the read-aloud guru." Trelease works full-time addressing parents, teachers and professional groups on the subjects of children, literature and television.

In The Read-Aloud Handbook, Trelease describes all the reasons people should read to children, how to do it, and how to create an atmosphere in the home and classroom that welcomes readers. The second half of the book is an easy-to-read reference to more than 1200 children's books, from picture books to novels, that are great read-alouds.

The Kiwanis Club of Prince Georges County, in partnership with the Prince Georges County Public Schools and the Prince Georges County memorial Library System, is sponsoring Trelease's appearance. The program is free and open to the public. For information, call 301-699-3500.

GOLDEN AGE CLUB

by Dolores Capotosto

The October 4 meeting of the Golden Age Club will be the business meeting of the month. Now that our summer fun and trips are over, it is time to consider the events scheduled for Fall. It will be especially hard for those members who went to Hilton Head Island—such a luxurious place! But all segments of the population were seen on our guided tours—to Beaufort, and to Parris Island in South Carolina, and to Savannah, in Georgia.

We would like to thank Rudi Pugliese for his presentation on Antietam Battlefield. Also, a thanks to Joe Wilkinson for bringing us the speaker from the Beltway Plaza, Laura Latimer. The businessmen there are interested in ideas from the local public on ways to improve shopping at the Plaza. Since they are open early in the morning, they suggest that walkers might want to avail themselves of the Mall.

Sign-up lists are available at the meetings for our great trips—we will go to Luray Caverns in October.

Last, but certainly not least, a hardy "Welcome Back" to the Mahers. We will continue to hope and pray for other members who are ill.

Volleyball

Actors' Talent Shows In "Jake's Women"

by Autumn Kuei

I was told at the doorway of the Greenbelt Arts Center that "Jake's Women" had a stellar staff. Naturally, the critic in me thought in typical Rochester arrogance, "Don't bother to give them a character reference—I shall judge for myself..." Let me begin by saying that this interpretation of Neil Simon's classic is the stuff which GAC's earlier productions like "Jigsaws" and "Philadelphia, Here I Come" are made of. What constantly amazes me is how talent can override any need for special effects!

The story is of a successful playwright whose hold on the line between reality and fantasy has become very fuzzy. Throughout the play, you see him struggle mentally with his past and present wives, his sister, his therapist and his daughter. Each person represents an unresolved issue in his internal turmoil over trust, control, intimacy and guilt. The entire play is an adrenaline-pumping tug-o-war which no one, especially not Jake, can afford to lose.

Bill Prindle gives an overwhelmingly powerful performance as Jake, a man halfway in shadow and halfway in light. His biography reads that he loves serious drama and comedy. He can honestly claim that he's good at what he likes because "Jake's Women" qualifies as both. I wonder at the knockouts he must have survived—the seven rounds he went through in this play are enough to make any sane person "punchy." And if you wonder who had the honesty to bring this "Ironman" down to his hips, look no further than Deborah Hensley, who plays his estranged wife, Maggie. Hensley's Maggie brings to life a "small town" girl's journey from chrysalis to butterfly. Winning her back from the arms of a cosmopolitan executive took a "miracle, a catharsis and a bolt of lightning" from Jake.

There will always be arguments about whether the first love is always the most memorable. For Jake, there is no dispute. He lives in the past and the woman who holds him captive is Julie, his dead wife, played by Janlee Marshall. Marshall was perfectly cast as the character who represented everything "wholesome and pure" in Jake's youth. In contrast, Vicki Weeks, who plays Sheila, a woman Jake has been seeing since his separation from Maggie, tells the audience that no matter how he tries to rise above mediocrity—he is still a "plain, commonplace sinner." And to put everything into perspective is Edith, Jake's analyst or rather the "devil's advocate," played by Norma Ozur. She is back in rare form with her "new-age analysis." Sarcasm rolls off her tongue like a shot of rich, aged brandy. She truly makes one feel like "time flies when you're neurotic."

Contrary to popular belief, the presence of a cute little girl does nothing for the blackened heart of a critic. A talented, junior actress, on the other hand, casts an entirely different light on the situation. Heather Martin, who played Molly at 12, will hopefully return again in other productions which call for a youthful character. She was genuine and spontaneous as Daddy's little girl. And as Daddy's big girl at 21, Vicki Riego de Dios, will have no problem being initiated into the Greenbelt theatre community. She had just the right amount of spunk and warmth to carry off a role that could easily have been overplayed.

Finally, the infamous sibling connection comes in the form of a gracious Jill Macy. She plays Jake's flighty sister, Karen, who is the projection of everything he loves and despises about himself. Macy is as thrown into the role as her character is eager to placate the tantrums of her brother. On behalf of the community, we welcome all talented West Coast transplants.

"Jake's Women" will be showing Fridays/Saturdays, September 29-October 14 at 8 p.m. and Sundays, October 1 and 8 at 2 p.m. Please call (301) 441-8770 for more information.

Zoning Independence Is Concern of Council

by Heather Elizabeth Peterson

At its September 11 meeting, Greenbelt City Council discussed a broad range of issues including a proposed resolution to oppose the transportation of nuclear waste, the city's right to independently determine its own zoning rules, and the use of Public Works personnel and equipment to erect campaign signs. School Resource Officer David Buerger reported on his law enforcement efforts at Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

Radioactive Waste

What methods should the city use to promote its views on national issues? This was the question raised by a request from Ray and Barbara Stevens, who asked council to adopt a resolution to oppose the transportation of nuclear waste to Nevada.

Council pointed out that the city had already sent letters to officials opposing the congressional bills which would allow such transportation. However, Barbara Stevens said that she and some other citizens had talked at length with an aide to Rep. Steny H. Hoyer, and that he seemed unaware of the issue. Stevens said that the letter which had been sent to Hoyer and others "didn't get into their brains."

Mayor Toni Bram believed that it would be a bad idea to pass a resolution because "the elected officials with whom we work would not recognize this as Greenbelt's normal procedure." At the suggestion of Councilmember Edward Putens, and with the agreement of Ray and Barbara Stevens, council decided to send the old letter again, attaching new information to it.

Fifty Years Ago The Big Storm

by James Giese

July, 1945—Wind and lightning played havoc in Greenbelt on Tuesday, July 10. The wind took two roofs off of hangers at Schrom airport, ripped down over a hundred feet of masonry block wall at the Maintenance Building yard on Hamilton Place and twisted awry a line of trees between 21 Parkway and the Athletic Clubhouse. Many households lost electricity as a result of the storm.

Damaged by the hangar roof collapses at Schrom Airport was an Ercoupe airplane, a forerunner of the famous nonspinnable plane built by the Engineering and Research Corporation in nearby Riverdale. A truss fell on the plane just ahead of the tail surface, buckling the fuselage, bending the left wing tip and tearing a couple of large holes in the fabric.

Bricks were hurled as far as 150 feet when lightning hit the boiler room chimney at 44 Ridge. The bolt then entered the attic roof at 44-E, the home of the Thomas Canning family. The bolt passed out through a bedroom wall and left plaster and pieces of moulding in its wake. The Canning's youngest daughter had been in the bedroom only minutes before, but roused by the storm, she had come downstairs. (Tom Canning would later become a city councilmember and mayor.)

Delegate James Hubbard, who described to council several bills which are making their way through the Maryland legislature. The one of most interest to Greenbelt is a bill which would allow Greenbelt, Bowie, and College Park to have home rule in zoning.

The County Council presently determines Greenbelt's zoning. Councilmember Rodney Roberts expressed the sentiments of council by saying, "I don't want the county council to be telling us to what we have to live with in the future."

Later in the meeting, after Hubbard had left, council debated whether to push only for the above bill or whether the city should also support a bill allowing Greenbelt to determine its own zoning, without linking it to Bowie and College Park.

Councilmembers were divided on the issue. "I think our biggest advantage now is Delegate Hubbard's position," said Councilmember Tom White. "I'm interested in winning."

Councilmember J Davis and Putens agreed. Davis said, "I'm concerned that if we put in both (bills), we'll lose both. . . . If we can get some of this we can keep going for the whole."

Bram and Roberts preferred to support a Greenbelt-only bill as well, but in the end voted with the rest of council to support Delegate Hubbard's bill alone.

School Resource Officer

Council began the night by listening to a report by Eleanor Roosevelt High School's School Resource Officer. David Buerger described his police work among the students, saying that "the relationship between law enforcement and education is long overdue."

Buerger said that "what I see is that two percent of the student population cause one hundred percent of the problems." He reported that marijuana use is up, but truancy is down.

Councilmembers offered much praise for Buerger's work. Putens pointed out that Buerger had responded to 556 complaints on the high school grounds and 113 complaints off the grounds. Davis said that she had "only heard praise" for Buerger. "You are a role model for these kids," she declared.

Campaign Signs

After an extended debate, council decided to revise procedures for the posting of campaign signs for city elections. Council decided to continue the establishment of nine sites of city public property where election signs can be placed. However, Roberts protested the fact that he and other candidates were forced to allow the city staff to put up the signs. "I don't think that it's right that the city council use the public works staff as a private contractor to put up their signs," said Roberts.

Council revised the rules to allow candidates, if they wish, to place their own signs on the poles which staff erects. At Roberts' suggestion, council also established a lottery system to determine which candidate's signs go where.

Cable Blackout

David Wilson, general manager of Maryland Cable, attended the meeting to discuss the recent rise in cable charges, and was asked by Putens about a cable blackout to some of Greenbelt's homes on September 7 and 8. Wilson, who was unaware of the reasons for the blackout, said that customers can request credit for the time missed. Putens protested that Maryland Cable ought to be able to tell when its customers are missing service, and should credit them automatically.

man Development Policy Committee and the Finance, Administration and Intergovernmental Relations Policy Committee. He is currently a member of the Small Cities Committee.

Putens is a 1972 graduate of the University of Maryland where he earned his degree in microbiology, and was a member of the University's lacrosse team. While attending college, he was employed in various research capacities for medical and research development companies, and co-authored several patents dealing with minimizing air pollutants.

Valerie Siegel

Valerie Siegel received her Bachelor of Science degree in the behavioral and social sciences summa cum laude from the University of Maryland where she was president of the Alpha Sigma Lambda honor society. She has been an instructor at the University of Maryland intermittently since 1981. In 1984 she received her law degree from the University of Baltimore. Siegel is a member of the Maryland Court of Appeals, the United States District Court, and the United States Supreme Court. She was elected a fellow of the Maryland Bar Foundation in 1991.

Valerie practiced law in Greenbelt for three years before becoming an Assistant State's Attorney for Prince Georges County in 1987. She had been prosecuting felony cases in the Homicide/Narcotics Division for more than four years when she resigned in July 1993. At that time she was appointed by the Maryland State Bar Association to direct the Doctor/Lawyer Education Partnership in all of the middle schools in Maryland. This drug education project puts teams of physicians and attorneys into small classroom settings to discuss the medical and legal consequences of involvement with alcohol, tobacco, marijuana and inhalants as well as other, more powerful, illicit substances. Her office is here in Greenbelt.

Valerie has held leadership positions with the Maryland State Bar Association, the Prince Georges County Bar Association, the Women's Bar Association, and the Prince Georges Women Lawyers' Caucus. Governor William Donald Schaefer appointed her to his Advisory Board for Justice Assistance, where she chaired the drug treatment committee. She has also been a member of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America and the Maryland Trial Lawyers Association, the American Bar Association Special Committee on the Drug Crisis, and the American Bar Association Special Committee on Youth Education for Citizenship.

Over the years, Valerie has written several publications, including two articles published in the Maryland Bar Journal. The 1986 Maryland State Bar Association (MSBA) publication Harmfully Involved: Maryland Youth in Crisis was released at the same time that University of Maryland basketball star Len Bias died after ingesting cocaine. Valerie wrote the narrative portion of the report. The report also contained 53 policy recommendations formulated by members of a special MSBA committee on which Valerie served. By 1991 more than half of those recommendations were adopted by the Maryland General Assembly, the Maryland Department of Education, and several government agencies. She also wrote the course guides, Issues in Criminal Justice and Alcohol in American Society, for the University of Maryland University College.

In Greenbelt, Valerie has been president of the Lakeside Citizens Association, chairperson of the Greenbelt Crime Prevention Committee, secretary of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club, and co-chair of the 1985 Citizens for the Bond Issue. She is a charter member of the Greenbelt Arts Center and Friends of the Greenbelt Museum. She is a founding director of the David R.S. Craig Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Valerie moved to Greenbelt in 1978 as the wife of Harold Aryai Siegel, a Greenbelt resident for 36 years. Together they raised their eight children on Maplewood Court. Three of those children (together with two of their five grandchildren) are now home-owners in Greenbelt.

"Apples for Computers" at Giant

Giant Food, Inc. has announced the 1995-96 edition of the company's highly successful Apples for the Students PLUS program began on Sunday, Sept. 17. The program will run for 24 weeks, ending on Saturday, March 2, 1996.

The 1995-96 school year marks the seventh consecutive year Giant Food has offered Apples for the Students PLUS. During the past six years, the program has enabled Giant Food to award over $37 million worth of educational equipment to more than 3,200 schools in Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia. Giant Food expects even more schools to participate in Apples for the Students PLUS this year, as the program has been expanded to include the company's new Super G stores in Wilmington, Delaware and Cherry Hill, New Jersey. This year's program will include an expanded selection of calculators and PBS videotapes.

The program works quite simply: Schools collect pink register tapes and send them to Giant's Apples for the Students PLUS headquarters where they are deposited into the schools' accounts. When schools have acquired enough register tapes, they may order equipment.

Schools will once again automatically receive double credit when a participating manufacturer's product is purchased. The double credit will appear at the bottom of the register receipt along with the Apples for the Students PLUS total.

Through its Adopt-A-School Plan, Giant encourages businesses to adopt schools by setting up an employee or customer/client tape collection receptable and/or by matching their total tape collection dollar amounts with a cash gift of one percent or more donated directly to schools. Over 350 businesses adopted schools during the 1994/1995 program.

For more information about Giant's Apples for the Students PLUS, please contact Giant Food, Inc., Apples for the Students PLUS, Dept. 872, 6300 Sheriff Rd., Landover, Maryland 20785, or call (301) 341-4162 in Washington, 995-4162 in the Baltimore area, or 1-800-476-6498, ext. 4162, in Delaware and New Jersey.

Fifty Years Ago Editor Quits

by James Giese

July, 1945—Anne Hull submitted her resignation as the thirteenth editor of the Greenbelt Cooperator. She was the third woman to hold the position and had served since September, 1944. At a staff meeting, some explanation was brought out for the high turnover rate in editorships. For example, there were difficulties in organizing the staff and mechanical problems faced by the incumbent. Suggestions for easing the lot of future editors included observation of deadlines for news material and recruiting more reporters and office workers.

Also resigning was the assistant editor, Eleanor Ritchie. Successors were not immediately named. (Although never announced, Ritchie apparently was talked into staying and becoming editor, as her name appeared on the masthead of the next issue as the editor and for each issue thereafter for the remainder of the year.)

Dr. Clark at Town Meeting

by Mary Moien

Approximately 200 parents, administrators, and community members gathered at Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS) on September 20 to attend a school board town meeting hosted by Suzanne Plogman, PG School Board vice chairman. The main purpose of the meeting was to meet Dr. Jerome Clark, the new Superintendent of Schools and to hear him speak on his reorganization plan—communities committed to children.

Clark began his talk by stating that he has four years to make a difference in Prince Georges County and he knows that this means four years or less. He is dedicated to the idea of communities committed to children and pointed out that part of the Board of Education's Mission Statement includes extensive and meaningful parent/community involvement. This is his primary emphasis.

Clark intends that the school system be held accountable for the success of its children. He will lead by example, not by edict. The children's agenda must be addressed first, not the agendas of the principals or the teachers. He emphasized that we all are the stewards of a good life for our children. Parents, teachers, and community must act now. Clark described the school system by using a business model. Education is the biggest business in the county. In education, like business, there is a bottom line. The bottom line for education is the graduation rate and having children acquire skills to go on to college or to work and to have a good life.

Next, Clark presented his priority commitments to children through: academic achievement; school safety; teacher and administrator accountability; and community involvement. Parental involvement is vitally important in the scheme. Each parent must set aside time to work with and for the children and the county. Young people come to school with the attitudes and qualities that are in their home and community. Negative action is not learned at school; thus, home and community must change to encourage children to change.

Under Clark's new plan, all of the schools in the county have been divided into 20 clusters of schools. Each grouping is comprised of 7-13 schools under the leadership of a Chief Educational Administrator (CEA), usually the principal of the local high school. Dr. Gerald Boorman, the ERHS principal, is the Chief Educational Administrator of the Roosevelt cluster. That cluster includes Greenbelt Springhill Lake, Glenarden Woods, James McHenry and Magnolia elementary schools, Greenbelt Middle School, and Roosevelt High School. The clusters will have clearly defined expectations; community of schools organizations; and corporate reports to the community. The CEA's have been relieved of some of their day-to-day activities in the high schools so that they will have time to visit the other cluster schools and take a hands-on approach.

Community involvement is essential through parent outreach and involvement; community of schools advisory boards; OASIS Centers; business partnerships; and system wide advisory councils. OASIS centers will be located in at least one school in each cluster and will be places where students can come to "refresh themselves" and to obtain academic assistance. Clark is asking every adult and secondary student in the county to volunteer eight hours to the schools during the school year.

There is a more controversial segment to the superintendent's plan—controversial in his words. He proposes "no fault" learning in the early grades, with a focus on opportunities, not labels, i.e., grades. Using a story from his own early school life, Clark emphasized that at age five, you should not be made to feel you are less in the world than others. Grades are for adults, not young children. He does not want to destroy the enthusiasm of the children.

Clark summarized his presentation by commenting on the fact that the school auditorium was not full. He stated that the crowd was 1/3 the size of the crowd for hearings on the proposed new stadium. This is the wrong emphasis. Education is the great equalizer. We become different people through education.

Vision

"We have the vision," Putens replied. "I want to bring in people to sell the process."

In other words, Hobbes said, "You've got your vision; you need strategy and tactics to carry it out."

Putens agreed with this description of his views, saying,

"I have a vision . . . but it doesn't preclude some changes" if the process reveals weaknesses in council's present vision.

Council and staff concluded the work session by agreeing that staff would develop a new process which would include council's vision for the future of Greenbelt West.

INFLUENZA (DISEASE AND VACCINE)

Influenza is caused by a virus subdivided into several types of which A and B are the most prevalent. Within each type there are several subtypes. Major shifts occur among the subtypes about every 10 years, and these are given names like Asian flu, Hong Kong flu, Swine flu, etc. Minor shifts occur yearly, hence every year a new vaccine combination is required.

Influenza occurs in epidemics, mainly in the winter months. Type A is more severe and occurs mid-winter. Type B occurs mainly in late winter. About every ten years a major epidemic or pandemic (world-wide epidemic) occurs when a shift takes place from one subtype to another. The greatest pandemic took place in 1918-19, when 20 million people died all over the planet—mostly from bacterial complications. (Such a thing could not happen today because of the existence of antibiotics.) The disease is spread from person to person, and children, old people, and ill people are most susceptible. The incubation period is about 3 days. Children remain contagious from the day before, till about 7 days after the onset of symptoms. The disease is highly contagious.

The symptoms of influenza are: fever, chills, diffuse muscle aches, malaise (feeling badly), headache, cough, and watery pink eyes. The severity of the illness varies greatly. Complications can be serious: bacterial pneumonia, Reye's syndrome (affecting the brain and liver), Guillain-Barre syndrome (causing paralysis), myositis (muscle disease), and carditis (inflammation of the heart). Severe complications are rare.

The outlook in uncomplicated influenza is excellent. Complete recovery is the rule. Symptomatic treatment is most important to prevent complications: non-aspirin containing fever suppressants (aspirin has been implicated in causing Reye's syndrome), cough medicine, rest, and liquids. There are no acceptable antibiotic agents against this disease at this time.

Prevention of influenza in children consists of avoidance of the disease if possible, immunization, and medication. There are two antiviral agents for this disease: Amantadine and Rimantadine. The latter has fewer side-effects.

They only protect against Type A flu. They are used in children and in adults to prevent flu in high-risk patients. (In adults they are also used to treat the disease.) Vaccine and drug should be used together during an epidemic.

VACCINE against influenza is safe and effective. It is changed yearly in anticipation of the expected subtypes believed to strike during the coming season. The vaccine must be given YEARLY. Two kinds are in use: the inactivated whole virus vaccine for adults, and the subvirion (split) vaccine for children. The vaccine should be given sometime in autumn in anticipation of the influenza season in the winter. Previously unimmunized children should receive two shots, about a month apart. Reactions will occur in about one-tenth of recipients, and consist of fever, and a sore arm where the vaccine was injected. Serious complications do not occur in children. (Very rare cases of Guillain-Barre syndrome have occurred in adults with the swine flu vaccine.) Children with severe allergy to eggs or chickens should not receive the vaccine.

Influenza vaccine is recommended for everyone, but the following groups are especially urged to get it: people with chronic lung diseases (asthma, cystic fibrosis, respiratory allergies, emphysema); people with heart disease; people with immune deficiency disease (such as AIDS), or those receiving immunosuppressive treatment (such as cancer patients); people with sickle cell anemia; people with chronic diseases: kidney trouble, diabetes, and those on long-term aspirin therapy (Kawasaki's disease, rheumatoid arthritis); people in households with high-risk adults.

The vaccine can be given to anyone over six months of age.

I urge every child who is on ALLERGY SHOTS, and every child who has ASTHMA to get the vaccine yearly. Influenza can be a devastating disease in such people.

Our charge for the flu vaccine is $20.00 per shot. (The initial vaccination in small children requires two shots a month apart.) Insurance will sometimes pay, depending on their whim. You may wish to check with them.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call us.

POLICE BLOTTER

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

A woman was sitting in the AMC 8 Theaters, 6000 block of Greenbelt Rd., watching a movie on Friday, Sept. 15, when a man sat down next to her. The man had a jacket on his lap, and the woman could see his hands moving underneath the jacket. The man placed one of his hands on the thigh of the woman. The woman told the man to stop and to leave the theater. The woman followed the man as he began to leave the theater. The man fled the theater using the emergency exit doors at the rear of the theater. The suspect is described as a black male, 40 to 50 years of age, 5'7" to 5'8", with a thin build, short black hair, ruddy complexion, wearing a dark purple t-shirt, dark pants and carrying a jacket.

A 21-year-old non-resident man was arrested as a result of being stopped for driving a vehicle with expired tags on Saturday, Sept. 16. A backup officer observed the butt of a handgun protruding from under the driver's seat. The driver did not have a permit to carry the weapon, a loaded .357 caliber revolver. The driver was charged with transporting a handgun in a vehicle. After appearing before a District Court Commissioner, the driver was released on personal recognition pending trial.

A resident of the 100 block of Westway reported her sons as having battered her and forcibly taken her ATM card on Monday, Sept. 18. The suspects were stopped by an officer on Centerway. A search of the vehicle revealed a quantity of suspected marijuana and controlled dangerous substance (CDS) paraphernalia. A 26-year-old resident man was arrested, charged with possession of a CDS with intent, possession of a CDS, and possession of CDS paraphernalia, and held on $20,000 bond. A 20-year-old resident man was arrested, charged with robbery and assault and battery, and held on $5,000. A 17-year-old resident male youth was arrested, charged with robbery and assault and battery and held at Boys' Village, Cheltenham, pending juvenile court action.

As officers were responding to a violent domestic dispute on Parkway on Friday, Sept. 18, police dispatchers advised the suspect was seen leaving the scene in a large pickup. A vehicle matching the description was stopped on Southway. A canister containing suspected marijuana was located during the vehicle search. The driver, a 36-year-old resident man, was arrested, charged with possession of marijuana, and held on $1,000 bond pending trial.

A vehicle was stopped in the 6000 block of Greenbelt Rd. on Saturday, Sept. 16, for registration violation. A status check revealed the operator's driving privilege was suspended. As the officer was issuing the traffic citations, the driver voluntarily indicated there was contraband in the glove box. A device used for administering crack cocaine was located. The driver, a 37-year-old non-resident man, was arrested, charged with possession of paraphernalia and driving with a suspended license, and released on citations pending trial.

A 38-year-old resident man was arrested on an open warrant in the 7700 block of Hanover Parkway on Monday, Sept. 18. Suspected crack cocaine and a pipe commonly used for smoking crack cocaine were found on the man during a search. The man was charged with possession of a CDS and possession of CDS paraphernalia and held on $500 bond.

An officer on routine patrol, on Tuesday Sept. 19, in the Beltway Plaza parking lot observed three children left unattended in a parked vehicle. A 31-year-old non-resident woman was charged, with leaving children unattended in a motor vehicle, and released on citation pending trial.

A 37-year-old resident man was arrested, charged with trespassing at Beltway Plaza Mall on Thursday, Sept. 21. The man had previously been banned from the grounds. The man was released on citation pending trial.

Thefts

A resident in the 5900 block of Cherrywood Terrace contacted the police when he heard someone trying to pry the screen off of a window. The victim looked through his patio door and observed a man attempting to open the door. The suspect fled, initially hiding behind a vehicle on Cherrywood Court, toward Breezewood Drive. The suspect is described as a black man, 20-35 years old, 6'0", 190 pounds, wearing dark clothing.

A witness reported observing someone break into a residence on Hamilton Place on Tuesday, Sept. 19. When officers arrived, the witness reported the suspect was still inside the house. The suspect was located and escorted from the residence. Later, the same day, another witness called to report the man had broken into the house again. A 52-year-old resident man was arrested, charged with burglary, and held on $500 bond pending trial.

A woman entering her residence on Westway found a man standing inside on Tuesday, Sept. 19. The woman fled to a nearby residence to report the crime. The suspect used an unknown means to defeat the door lock. The suspect is described as a man, 5'6", wearing a black long sleeve shirt and dark pants.

Other burglaries reported include: a residence in the 6100 block of Springhill Terrace on Wednesday, Sept. 20, with home electronic equipment taken; and a residence in the 7000 block of Megan Lane on Monday, Sept. 18, with home electronic, photography and other items reported taken.

Auto Thefts

An officer observed a vehicle with expired tags in 7400 block of Greenbelt Rd. on Saturday, Sept. 16. A check revealed the tags had been reported stolen to Howard County Police in March. After the vehicle was stopped, and the driver arrested, further investigation revealed the vehicle was unregistered and uninsured. The driver, a 37-year-old non-resident man was charged with theft under $300, operating an unregistered and uninsured vehicle. The man was released on citations pending trial.

An officer requested a check on a suspicious vehicle in the Beltway Plaza parking lot on Thursday, Sept. 21. The inquiry revealed the vehicle, a 1986

Toyota Camry, was reported stolen to Montgomery County Police and the tags had been reported stolen to Takoma Park Police on Sept. 14. No arrests were made in connection with the vehicle recovery.

Three vehicle thefts were reported on Wednesday, Sept. 20. These include: a blue Toyota Camry four-door, no tags, from the 6000 block of Springhill Dr.; a beige 1993 Honda Accord four-door, MD tags BCV503, from the 6100 block of Breezewood Dr.; and a 1991 Honda Accord, from the 5900 block of Cherrywood Lane, which was recovered in the 6100 block of Breezewood Dr. with a damaged ignition switch.

Vandalism to, thefts from, and attempted thefts of vehicles were reported in the following areas: 6000 block of Breezewood Dr.; 9000 block of Breezewood Terrace; 9100 block of Edmonston Ct.; 6000, 7500, and 7600 blocks of Greenbelt Rd.; 6400 block of Ivy Lane; 7900 block of Mandan Rd.; 7100 block of Megan Lane; Parkway; 400 block of Ridge Rd.; 2 court of Southway; 9100 block of Springhill Lane; 100 block of Tamarisk Ct.; and 100 block of Westway.
